(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

VINE, VA., July 28.—Monday the 27th, was the regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne county. Several prominent citizens were also present. It was observed that there was much political planning done.

It was suggested by A. O. Baum, county vice-president of the Good Roads Association of Virginia, that a meeting of the citizens be called at the next meeting of the board, in the interest of the county roads. The road system and conditions are by no means satisfactory.

The crops will not be an average, the season being in many respects unfavorable.

J. J. Dardin, pilot, versus the master of the schooner H. W. Cramp, $166.25, with interest from April 3, 1903; damages, $175.

The attachments in most of these suits were served to-day, but some of the vessels were not in port. The cases will probably be tried along with a large number of others of the same character during the September term of the court.

In the Corporation Court this morning Judge Barham again refused to grant T. W. Dyson a lcense to conduct a saloon at the corner of Twenty-fifth Street and Washington Avenue. The license was refused when Mr. Dyson applied for a renewal at the beginning of this fiscal year, and the decision to-day ends the fight.

A big "crap" game almost stopped work at the coal piers this morning about 8 o'clock. Many negroes stopped work to play or to watch the game and the boses had to ask the police to have the game broken up. Chief Johnson, Sergeant Crafford and Officer Wood responded to the call and succeeded in landing five of the ringleaders with the bones. The men were fined by Justice Brown and the othey gamesters went back to work.

Eugene E. Hartsook and H. N. Boyer, who engaged in a personal encounter on Washington Avenue yesterday, were each put under a bond of £200 to keep the peace for six months in the Police Courtitis morning.

The Circuit Court convened here this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for the July term.
The docket was called and a number of important cases set for trial during the term.

Negro Who Assaulted Four-Year-Old Child Was Not Given Death Penalty In Portsmouth-Narrow Escape from Drowning.

NORFOLK, VA., July 28.—Judge Waddill, of the United States District Court, awarded Mrs. Laura Carr $4,000. The suits was a libel on the forry steamer City of Portsmouth for personal injuries. She sued for $20,000 on account of an accident in getting off the boat in June, 1902. Her ankle was crushed between the float and the steamer, and the fall which ensued broke the end of her spine. The plaintiff alleged that she was permanently injured, and the defendant contended that she came home late at night from a dinner and was not as alert to the rules for the safety of passengers as she might have been. The defendant will take an appeal.

John Henry Smith, manager of the Virginia Manual Labor Scolety, which has a school in Hanover, was here to-day, He took the little negro boy, Lovely Young, sent to the school by Judge Hanckel, of the Corporation Court. He expected to get another incorrigible boy, Willie Spence, but while waiting Justice Taylor had an application from that boy's aunt and allowed her to take the boy to train. Smith says there are 119 pupils at the school, or nineteen more than the State provides for, but he is not willing to refuse any children who can be benefited by the training. He was formerly a minister to Liberia, and speaks interestingly of that country for the benefit of thrifty colored people. But he is better satisfied to work where he was born—in Virginia. There are 225 acres of corn under cultivation by the boys of the school and thirty-five acres of cucumbers. On the latter crop there was an income of $570 last year.

Lizzie E. Mabry lost her case in the United States Court by the decision of Judge Waddill this morning. She brought a suit for $10,000 as the administratrix of her husband and for ...e loss of his life by drowning. He was keeper on the Norfolk and Western Rallway bridge, and was knecked off the bridge and drowned by the collision of the tug Helen, in passing the draw of the Southern Branch.

The question was on the nature of the case. The defense demurred that the case was not in admiralty, because the accident did not happen on the water, but to the bridge on the land. Judge Waddill agreed that the case was not one of libel. There is a similar suit pending in the civil court.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CHASE CITY, VA., July 2s.—This is the idle season of the year, when every one who can afford it wishes to take a trip. For the next month it will be excursions, plenies, protracted outdoor meetings at country churches, barbeeues and except for the tillers of the soil, practical cessation from work. The tohacco raiser, however, is never at leisure. From the time he plants his crop until it is securely placed in barns it requires constant work and attention.

Numerous summer visitors are here. The Mecklenburg is rapidly filling up. The Tes-Dees have arrived. The register shows patronage from many States. All are charmed with the delightful entertainment. A North Carolina fudge said:
"To sleep on the comfortable beds and take the baths at the Mecklenburg was worth a hundred mile trip."

Many delegates and visitors to the Concord Baptist Association, commencing its session to-day at Bethel Church four miles distant, have passed through here. The proceedings continue three days. The church is one of the oldest in the association, commencing continuents of the oldest of the sacciation, and was constituted 120 years ago, and except for brief periods never without a pastor.
